

Academic Performance Scholarship

CHAN WING TING

Associate of Science in Business Analysis

Wing Ting's enthusiasm in her studies has not just resulted in good grades. She put the analytical skills and business knowledge learnt from class to good use and even turned a tidy profit in the stock market. As a class representative she never missed a meeting and acted as a responsible channel of her peers' views to their teachers. While her good academic results naturally placed her on the President's List, she did not lose sight of the need to connect with others, and organized a picnic where her classmates were able to enjoy some down-time from their studies.
